

9/11 Anomalies

Evidence Pointing to Concealment

10 Critical Inconsistencies in the Official Record

INVESTIGATIVE ANALYSIS

PUBLICLY VERIFIABLE SOURCES

#1. Building 7: Freefall With No Plane

The Key Fact

WTC 7 was a 47-storey steel-frame skyscraper — never struck by any aircraft. It collapsed at 5:20pm on 9/11, symmetrically, in 6.5 seconds.

NIST's own report confirmed the north face descended for 2.25 seconds at freefall acceleration — meaning zero structural resistance below.

Why It Matters

- Freefall requires every support column across multiple floors to fail near-simultaneously — something fire alone has never caused in any steel-frame building, before or since.
- NIST attributed collapse to thermal expansion causing a single Column 79 to fail — a sequence many structural engineers call physically implausible.
- A 2024 peer-reviewed study found only simultaneous failure of all core columns could produce the symmetrical, freefall collapse seen on video.
- The BBC reported the collapse live — while WTC 7 remained visibly standing in the background behind the reporter.

#2. BBC Reported The Collapse 23 Minutes Early

The Live Broadcast

At approximately 4:57pm, BBC reporter Jane Standley announced live on air that WTC 7 had collapsed — while the building remained visibly intact behind her in the live shot. CNN ran the same story prematurely. The building did not fall until 5:20pm.

The BBC's Response

The BBC later publicly acknowledged the error but stated it could not explain where the information originated or who provided the initial briefing. The central question — who scripted the story before it happened — has never been answered.

The Missing Archive

All BBC archive footage from that specific hour was confirmed "lost." The corporation cited a routine tape-wiping policy as explanation — making independent verification of the broadcast sequence impossible.

Note: This allows for 'disclosure' to the public. Similar to the Epstein files, they release the entire amount and then take them down.

#3. NORAD Stand Down: The 8-Minute Call

Standard Protocol

FAA/NORAD procedures required immediate fighter scrambles whenever any commercial aircraft deviated from its filed flight path.

- ❏ This protocol was executed 67 times in the twelve months preceding 9/11 — an average of more than once per week.

What Happened on 9/11

- The scramble order for the aircraft approaching the Pentagon involved an 8-minute authorisation delay conducted by phone between senior commanders
- Andrews Air Force Base — 10 miles from the Pentagon — had armed, combat-ready fighters on the ground that morning; none were scrambled
- The Pentagon was struck 14 minutes after NORAD claims it was first notified — well within intercept range for Andrews-based aircraft

Commission Findings

The 9/11 Commission itself later noted serious inconsistencies in NORAD's timeline, formally stating it had received inaccurate information during the investigation. No personnel were disciplined. No revised protocol was publicly mandated.

The Unanswered Question

If the standard protocol had been followed as executed 67 times that year, at minimum the Pentagon strike — occurring over 40 minutes after the first impact — should have been intercepted.

#4. The $2.3 Trillion Announcement: Distraction Mechanics

 September 10, 2001

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld holds a Pentagon press conference announcing the DoD cannot account for $2.3 trillion in transactions. Major media covers the story that evening.

 September 11 — Aftermath

The $2.3 trillion story is completely erased from public discourse. Coverage pivots entirely to the attacks. The financial investigation trail is never publicly reopened after 9/11.

 September 11, 2001 — 9:37am

A hijacked aircraft strikes the specific section of the Pentagon housing the Office of Naval Intelligence and financial analysts actively investigating the missing funds. An estimated 125 victims included budget analysts, accountants, and resource management staff.

- The intersection of the announcement timing, the precise location struck, and the professional profile of the victims has never been formally addressed in any official inquiry.

#5. The Insider Trading Spike

The Numbers

In the days before 9/11, the Chicago Board Options Exchange recorded a massive, anomalous spike in put options — bets that stock prices would fall — on United Airlines and American Airlines, the two carriers used in the attacks.

4,744

UAL put contracts, Sept 6–7

396

UAL call contracts — a 12:1 ratio

$5M+

Potential profit from the crash in share price

- ❏ The 12:1 put-to-call ratio represents an extreme statistical outlier, far exceeding normal market activity for that period.

The CIA Connection

The SEC traced a significant portion of trades through Deutsche Bank/Alex Brown. At the time, the former head of Alex Brown was A.B. "Buzzy" Krongard — who had departed the firm in March 2001 to become Executive Director of the CIA.

The Closed Investigation

The SEC investigation was quietly closed without ever publicly naming the individuals behind the trades. Journalists who pursued the inquiry reported the agency treated their questions "as if they were state secrets."

#6. Norman Mineta's Suppressed Testimony

"The plane is 50 miles out... 30 miles out... Do the orders still stand?"

"Of course the orders still stand. Have you heard anything to the contrary?"

— Exchange between a young aide and Vice President Dick Cheney, as testified under oath by Transportation Secretary Norman Mineta to the 9/11 Commission, approximately 9:20am, from inside the Presidential Emergency Operations Center beneath the White House.

What Mineta Testified

Mineta entered the PEOC at ~9:20am and found Cheney already in command. He observed the aide-Cheney exchange as Flight 77 approached Washington. The plane struck the Pentagon at 9:37am.

What the Commission Reported

The final 9/11 Commission Report did not include Mineta's testimony. The Commission instead placed Cheney's arrival in the bunker at 9:58am — a full 21 minutes after the Pentagon was struck.

The Critical Implication

If Cheney was present at 9:20am as Mineta testified, the "orders" referenced — to a plane already within 10 miles — could represent a stand-down rather than a shoot-down command. This contradiction has never been formally resolved.

#7. Physical Evidence Rapidly Destroyed

1

The Scale of Removal

Within days of the collapse, Ground Zero structural steel was loaded onto barges and trucked to salvage yards — including Hugo Neu Schnitzer at Fresh Kills Landfill — and melted down for recycling. This occurred before any independent forensic investigation had taken place.

Of an estimated 350,000+ tons of steel removed, only 150 pieces were preserved for study. Who selected them remains unclear.

2

Voices of Protest

Fire science professor Glenn Corbett of John Jay College publicly criticised the decision:

"The investigation into the collapse has been hampered by the destruction of steel wreckage that could hold vital clues."

Fire investigators and engineers who formally requested site access were denied. The 911 Commission later admitted it was underfunded and had restricted access to key documents and witnesses — famously described by its own co-chairs as "set up to fail."

#8. The Passport That Survived a Fireball

What Was Found

Hijacker Satam al-Suqami's passport was reportedly recovered intact on the streets of lower Manhattan — having allegedly survived the initial impact fireball, fires reportedly hot enough to weaken structural steel, and the complete collapse of the 110-storey North Tower.

What Was Not Found

- The black boxes — flight data recorder and cockpit voice recorder — from Flight 11 (North Tower) were never recovered
- Those from Flight 77 (Pentagon) were described as "too damaged" to yield usable data

The NTSB Standard

Recovering a black box is considered so routine that the National Transportation Safety Board states it has never failed to recover one in a domestic commercial aviation accident — yet 9/11 produced multiple failures across different crash sites simultaneously.

The Unresolved Contradiction

A paper passport surviving conditions that destroyed two of the world's largest steel-frame buildings — while flight recorders engineered to withstand 3,400°F did not survive — has never been adequately explained by any official investigation.

#9. 118 Firefighters Reported Explosions

The FDNY recorded oral histories from firefighters and first responders between October 2001 and January 2002 — at the instruction of Fire Commissioner Thomas Von Essen. These recordings were withheld from the public by the Bloomberg administration until The New York Times sued under Freedom of Information law and won in 2005.

118 Witnesses

Testimonies described explosions, flashes, and sequential "boom boom boom" sounds consistent with controlled demolition — some occurring before the collapses began

FDNY Chief of Safety

Albert Turi stated he received reports of explosions before the buildings fell — from multiple independent sources within the department

William Rodriguez

Janitor in sub-basement B1 at 8:46am described a massive explosion from below — moments before the plane struck the tower above

Omitted from Report

The 9/11 Commission had access to these testimonies but did not include the explosion accounts in its final published report

#10. The Anthrax Letters

The Attack

Within one week of 9/11, weaponised anthrax letters were sent to Democratic Senate leaders (Tom Daschle, Patrick Leahy) and major media outlets (NBC, NY Post, ABC) — precisely the institutions best positioned to scrutinise or challenge a military response to the attacks.

The Origin

The FBI confirmed the anthrax originated from the US Army's biodefence laboratory at Fort Detrick, Maryland — domestic, government-grade, requiring significant specialist expertise to produce and weaponise.

The Convenient Conclusion

The case was pinned on Army scientist Dr. Bruce Ivins, who died of a drug overdose in 2008 — before he could be charged, cross-examined, or stand trial. Ivins was also one of the scientists the FBI had initially enlisted to examine the attack anthrax, giving him direct access to the evidence from day one.

The Disputed Science

ProPublica, the BBC, and a National Academy of Sciences panel all concluded the FBI had overstated the scientific evidence against Ivins. Multiple colleagues publicly disputed his guilt. The case remains, in effect, officially closed but scientifically unresolved.

The Legislative Consequence

The attacks accelerated passage of the USA PATRIOT Act, which had already been drafted and was awaiting a legislative catalyst.

The Pattern

Each anomaly, in isolation, might be explained away. Together — freefall physics, suppressed testimony, pre-knowledge trading, destroyed forensic evidence, a domestic bioweapons attack targeting the opposition — they describe something more coherent: an architecture of concealment.

→ Freefall physics

WTC 7 collapses at gravitational acceleration with zero recorded resistance — a physical impossibility under fire-only conditions

→ Suppressed testimony

A Cabinet secretary's sworn account is omitted from the official record. 118 first-responder testimonies describing explosions are excluded

→ Pre-event foreknowledge

Anomalous put options, a premature news broadcast, and a press conference the day before all point to information that existed before the attacks

→ Destroyed evidence

350,000 tons of structural steel recycled before forensic analysis. Archive footage lost. Investigation access denied and underfunded

All sources cited in this presentation are publicly verifiable. The questions remain open.
